JNIM Programming Specialist. I do not sell. In any case, I do not sell. In any case, I do not sell. Title: JNIM Programming Hello, everybody! It's finally here! I've had a lot of problems with the previous version, which was at Version 1.0.4. The installer could not install even after I installed it on my system. But, now the Version 1.0.5 is ready for download! I have installed the ISO on a very slow 16 GB SATA hard drive, and it only took 5 minutes to install the OS. Now, after the installation, you'll find a folder named "ESP-9E is Ready". This is the folder where all of the ESP-9E files are installed. You should be able to find the folder if you extract the ISO. Hope you enjoy the new version!

Testimonials: Jim Wright: This is what I would call a "wait and see" version. I had some difficulty on the initial setting up of the system; sometimes it took a little while to recognize the discs installed, and sometimes the system thought some of them were deluxe edition 2
